

Abstract of the Disclosure

09/26/080

An illumination equipment for microlithography has an illumination system, and a reticle with magnesium fluoride as the support material.

The illumination system provides radially polarized light, and the 5 magnesium fluoride is oriented with its principal axis about in the direction of the optical axis (A) at the reticle. In addition, a suitable cooling system is described.

09/26/080